GROOM IGNORED A PENDING SUIT.

Senator William V. Sullivan, of Mississippi, who was sued on October 26 last by Miss Mai Leeton for $50,000, for alleged breach of promise to marry her, was married in Washington at 6:30 o'clock yesterday evening to Mrs. Marie Newman Atkins, a beautiful and accomplished woman, who is a daughter of the late Dr. Newman, one of Washington's most prominent physicians. The wedding ceremony was performed in the parsonage of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, by the Rev. Dr. W. S. Gaughy. Although but four persons, immediate members of the three families, were in attendance, three policemen in citizens' clothing were stationed at the parsonage during the ceremony, having first been on duty at the home of Dr. Harry M. Newman, a brother of the bride, where the wedding party assembled.

Neither Senator Sullivan nor members of the bride's family would offer an explanation for the presence of the law officers, but the understanding is that Senator Sullivan feared that either Miss Leeton or some of her friends might make a scene. The officers took every precaution to prevent their presence from attracting attention. Dr. Newman's residence is only a short distance from St. Stephen's rectory, at Twenty-fifth street and Pennsylvania avenue. They left the Newman residence and sauntered slowly down the street on the side opposite the rectory until opposite its doors, when they crossed over and entered, as ordinary clerical men might do. Nothing further was seen of them until after the ceremony.

Representative and Mrs. Joseph W. Bailey, of Texas, were to have attended the ceremony, but long after the time they should have arrived word was received that it would be impossible for them to come. The only witnesses to the wedding were Senator Sullivan's son and the bride's brothers, Dr. Newman and Mr. Charles R. Newman, and the latter, wife. Although Dr. Newman's residence is less than half a block from the rectory, a carriage was in waiting, in which the party were driven across the street to where Dr. Gaughy was in waiting to perform the ceremony.

The bride, who, despite her 10 years of widowhood, is yet youthful and attractive, wore an Oxford gray tulle wedding dress, with hat and gloves to match. The wedding was announced to take place at 6:30 o'clock, the delay being caused by the wait for Representative and Mrs. Bailey, and a crowd had assembled in front of the rectory, which drew up in two lines, causing the wedding party to run the gauntlet of curious eyes.

The ceremony was a brief one, and in less than half an hour Senator and Mrs. Sullivan emerged, accompanied by the others of the party, and closely followed by the three policemen.

Senator and Mrs. Sullivan left immediately for the former's home, in Mississippi. They will spend several weeks in the South and West returning to Washington about January 15. They will make their home this winter at the Ebbitt House. Mrs. Sullivan is the widow of Mr. John Atkins, and is very popular in the social circle in which she moves. Senator Sullivan's first wife died about five years ago. In her breach of promise suit Miss Leeton alleged that she met the Senator shortly after the death of his wife. He immediately began to pay her attentions, she claimed, and aided her in securing a divorce from the man who was then her husband. She asserted he proposed marriage to her and that she accepted, but he would never fulfill his promise. Miss Leeton came to Washington early last fall, at a time when Senator Sullivan was ill, and there were several exciting interviews between them. Miss Leeton is originally from Texas, but lived several years in Mississippi.
